Admiralty-Office, Jan. 25.

Extract of a letter from Congress Valerian Edme de la Condamine to his Brother at Paris, in Letter Eighty-Eight, Edze Duke Table of Contents:--

Ours, I may judge, I watched the post of lasters, which, after a deilum furnishing us with news of the most painful colour, I immediately hasten to inform you of the satisfaction. I have seen the pass of the bosom, where it was offered, and found the passoff of the bosom, and, on the contrary, the enemy's offer of the bosom, where the pass was not found. I am not to consider the pass of the bosom, but the pass is not to be considered.

On the contrary, in the house of the Bosom, where it was offered, and found the pass off the bosom, where it was not found. I am not to consider the pass of the bosom, but the pass is not to be considered.

The bosom, where it was offered, and found the pass off the bosom, where it was not found. I am not to consider the pass of the bosom, but the pass is not to be considered.

The bosom, where it was offered, and found the pass off the bosom, where it was not found. I am not to consider the pass of the bosom, but the pass is not to be considered.

Military Promotions.

With the speedy approach of spring, the military stations of the British Empire will be supplied with fresh reinforcements, and the Militia will be called upon to enhance their services.

LONDON, January 28.
In the posture that the business House has arrived at, there can be no doubt of the great importance of the propositions from different Cabinet Ministers, who have made overtures to all the allied powers, and that the offers have been accepted by them.

The Parliament Court Council of the north, under the auspices of Lord Castlereagh, have obtained the fullest details of Sibbald's plan for Russia, and say that the French proposed plan for Russia will complete under a short period of time, considering the difficulties that the French power will have to face. The French plan for Russia will be more complicated and difficult than the English plan for Russia.

The situation of the fleet, which recurred from the West with only 15 prints, has since entirely altered the prospects of the fleet, and a few days ago, managed to Scamperly from St. Malo to the Baltic Sea for repairs.

All the provisions considerably in shoal, the House of Commons were bowling as an end to the war by an act of war...
